

SCREENDAILY

CMG to sell horror-thriller No Tell Motel in Cannes

3 April, 2012 | By Jeremy Kay

Enderby Entertainment's film follows five friends who get stranded at an abandoned roadside lodging where a terrible fate once befell a young girl and her parents.

Brett Donowho directed and Enderby president Rick Dugdale produced. Executive producers are Bendrix Bailey and Enderby's Daniel Petrie Jr.

Angel McCord, Johnny Hawkes, Charlie Howes and Andrew MacFarlane star and TJ Cimfel wrote the screenplay.

"We are very excited to be in business with Edward and CMG," Dugdale said. "Our goal was to find an international partner who carries the same philosophy as us and understands the marketplace for this genre. We're looking forward to launching in Cannes."

"Brett and everyone at Enderby Entertainment have made a very scary film which we are thrilled to be screening in Cannes this May," CMG president Edward Noeltner (pictured) said. "The ensemble performances and special effects are top-notch and my sales team is very excited about selling this horror thriller to a worldwide audience."

Noeltner's team in Cannes includes Dene Anderberg and Agatha Altarovici and will be located at the Palais des Festivals – Lerins S.13.

Related images

